

IKE HAYES' HARD MUG

It Took a Heap of Punishment With-out Flinching.

THE FIGHT WAS A DRAW

But Ryan Didn't Like the Decision So He Then and There Chal-lenged Referee George Kessler Who'll Go Him Once.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—The fight between Jim Ryan and Ike Hayes at the race track this afternoon drew out a crowd of about 300 people who seemed to be fairly well satisfied with the outcome which they got to be very much afraid of having their faces spoiled and they staid pretty well away from each other until the fight was nearly half over when they mixed things up a little more after the referee had announced that he would leave the ring if they did not get in and fight.

The men then went at it with a good deal of earnestness and punched each other more energetically than they did at the start.

The fight was a left-handed contest all the way through, neither man using his right to any extent. It appeared as though Ryan was saving his right for one of his powerful knock-out blows, but it developed later that he had injured his right hand so badly in a fall yesterday noon that he was afraid to use it. Had Hayes been aware of this fact it is quite possible that the fight would have had a different result.

Although there was a good deal of science displayed by the contestants, they both left numerous wide openings which had been taken advantage of with sufficient force should have resulted in a knock-out.

There was the usual tiresome wait and the men did not appear in the ring until an hour and a half after the advertised time. Ryan appeared with his hands bandaged and this resulted in another kick, in which Hayes was forced to give in.

The weight of the men was not announced, but Ryan was said to be about 15 pounds lighter than his dusky opponent who strikes very heavy. Ryan was seconded by Dal Hawkins and Harry Dunn, and Jack Richards and Francis Dewitt were behind Hayes. The timers were Tom Ryan, Otto Floto and George Hopkins.

George Kessler acceded to the demands of the crowd and officiated as referee. Ryan covered himself to be a very clever man and he entirely outclassed Hayes in his defense. Both men have been taught to have a wholesome regard for each other's right hand and in view of this fact it was rather amusing to see them both do all of their fighting with their left.

The fight opened up with both men displaying the greatest caution. Ryan cleverly ducked a heavy swing and returned with a slight tap on Hayes' mouth which drew first blood. Both men gave an exhibition of the hula-hula dance in the second round.

In the third round Ryan landed his left heavily on Hayes' mouth and scored the first and only knock down. Hayes succeeded in landing a light left after he had released a couple of heavy swings. The hula-hula dance was repeated in the fourth and fifth rounds. There were a few lively exchanges in the next three rounds in which Ryan had the best of it.

Ryan commenced punting Hayes' mouth in the eighth round, and he pursued this plan all through the fight. In the ninth Ryan landed a strong left on Hayes' nose and mouth, which drew blood copiously. In the tenth Ryan landed a couple more on the forehead and mouth and received a good one on the neck in return.

In the succeeding rounds Ryan landed on Hayes' face repeatedly, but with no effect further than to draw blood. Hayes wanted him to tell him that he could hit him in the face all day without hurting him.

In the 15th round, after an even exchange of face blows, Hayes charged Ryan around the ring. This completed the stipulated number of rounds but, as time ran out, Ryan was unable to give a decision, he ordered three more rounds which announcement was received with cheers by the spectators who had by this time got worked up to quite a pitch of excitement.

In the 16th, Ryan landed his left four times in Hayes' face. Hayes was bleeding badly but seemed fresh and strong and willing to fight. In the 17th, Ryan landed another heavy left and got the best of the clinch. Hayes landed a few light body blows.

The referee then decided the fight a draw. The decision seemed altogether unsatisfactory to Ryan and he immediately issued a grand stand challenge to Kessler. In an instant Kessler's friends surrounded the ring with offers to back him for $250 to $1,000. As is well known, however, Kessler is in no shape for a fight just now. He broke a couple of the small bones in his right wrist some time ago and he had his arm in a plaster cast up to about two weeks ago. Kessler announced that he would be glad to meet Ryan for any amount as soon as he regains the full use of his arm.

F. E. Dewitt, manager of Hayes, called at the STANDARD office to-night to issue a challenge to any heavyweight in the country on behalf of the colored man. He says that Hayes will fight any man that the athletic club can bring here for a reasonable price.

WHY THE WATER IS BAD.
A Man Who Thinks He Knows the Reason of It All.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—A well-known citizen of Butte came past the city reservoir a few days ago and says that, in his opinion, the cause of the bad water is a large swamp on Basin creek, three or four miles above the reservoir, which is not drained. He also says the swamp could be easily drained, and then a wagon road could be built from the reservoir to the Highland, Camp Creek and Moose Creek mining districts and bring them within 24 miles of Butte. The swamp referred to is the only obstacle to such a road and the gentleman thinks the county could afford to go into the scheme of draining with the water company. At present it is necessary to go around by Malheur, a distance of 45 miles or more, in order to reach the mining districts mentioned.

WITH THE COMMISSIONERS.

Gossip About a Number of Small Matters.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—The county commissioners yesterday advertised for bids to put down a cement sidewalk in front of the court house from Alaska to Granite streets. Julian Smith, Marcus Daly and F. E. Sargeant own five lots on each side of the court house and they have agreed to let the county let the contract and select the material for the whole sidewalk.

Manager Wharton of the Street Railroad company was before the commissioners yesterday and made a proposition to build a bridge on lower Montana street, the cost to be borne by the company and the county, and asking to have that street graded and straightened. He said if the street was put in proper condition and the new bridge built, the railroad company would extend its South Butte line on Front street out to the cemetery. The extension would be a great convenience to the people and the straightening and grading of Montana street would make it one of the handsomest thoroughfares in the city. Previous efforts have been made to improve the street, but the city has refused to do its share of the grading. The commissioners have taken Mr. Wharton's proposition under consideration and an effort will be made to carry it out.

HE WAS GREEN.

But the Barber Put Him On in a Few Words.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—A new arrival in Butte occupied a chair in a barber shop the other day during the snow storm. "This is a funny sort of a country," he remarked, "with snow in summer time." Then he looked out at the window and saw a sprinkling cart go by. "Why in the world do they run sprinklers in a snow storm?" he asked.

"To keep the snow from drifting," replied the barber, as he dashed an extra dab of lather over the man's mouth.

Tom Murphy's Brother-in-Law.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—Tom Murphy and his brother-in-law got mixed up in a family row in Paul Davis' saloon to-night, which resulted in one of them pushing the other through one of the big plate glass windows. Officer Larson gathered Murphy in, but his relative escaped through the back door.

ANACONDA LOCAL.

"THE MILLIONAIRE."

Daniel Sully Will Produce His Great Play at the Evans Sept. 24.

The actual building of a railroad, says the New York World, with all the digging, blasting, hammering and consequent noise and bustle attendant upon such an undertaking, is one of the great scenes in "The Millionaire," Dan Sully's new play, which that popular actor produced at the Grand opera house last evening. In this scene the ordinary stage hand is not called into requisition, as Mr. Sully has engaged, at the regular union rates, gangs of Simon pure railroad laborers, who have been engaged not at all for show, but for work, pure and simple, and as that class of men expect the hardest kind of toil at all times, it goes without saying that they put their half hour in "The Millionaire" in true workmanlike fashion. The playing of this scene is a revelation in a theatrical line, as a railroad is laid complete, the smallest detail not being neglected. The "daggers" and other gentlemen of the pick and shovel anxiously await the summons of the call boy at the Grand each night.

Kansas Election Law.

"Is it a fact, Miss Anthony?" the St. Louis Republic reporter asked the agent of female suffrage, with some trepidation, "that the new statute governing elections in Kansas provide that the voter shall stand in the voting booth that his or her legs can be seen as far up as the knee?"

In attempting to reply to this question Miss Anthony blushed and stammered like a school girl. Then she recovered her composure and laughed out loud.

"It's ridiculous—perfectly ridiculous, I assure you," she finally said.

"I don't believe there is any such provision in the Kansas election law. If it is, you can rest assured it was put there by the artful enemy in the hope of keeping some woman away from the polls. But I am satisfied that this report is only a newspaper joke. However, I shall investigate the matter, when I get to Kansas, and see what is to be done about it."

PLANS FOR THE POLICE

The Commissioners Will Meet Next Wednesday.

PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED

As the Law Stands There Are Many Objections Offered and a Remedy Will Be Sought By Legislation.

BUTTE, Sept. 16.—The people of Butte are manifesting more interest in the police department just now than they have in a long time, and a great deal of importance is attached to the meeting of the police commission, to be held next Wednesday afternoon. The cases of Officers Dwyer, Lyden and Hogan will come up for investigation at that time and other important matters will come up for discussion.

Officer Dwyer is not doing any talking for publication in advance, but he is preparing a defense which he says will throw an altogether different light on his case. As Officer Hogan's case has already been investigated fully by the coroner's jury, there is little doubt that he will be reinstated. The death of the man Dwyer may be used, however, as a caution to the police generally to use their clubs and guns with discretion. The commissioners have no desire to see a policeman take the worst of it from any one, but at the same time, they are very much opposed to having some quiet and inoffensive prisoner receive an unnecessary beating. The commissioners have started in to work an improvement and reduce the force's shortcomings to a minimum, even if they have to discharge an officer at every meeting.

It is altogether probable that the present very poor law governing the police department will be brought to a close at the next session of the legislature and a more satisfactory one passed. The present law was drawn up at a convention of the mayors of the different cities and they seem to have been loath to part with the power of appointing policemen. It seems to have been their desire to give the police commission as much authority as possible without detracting from their own power. The plan is now to hold a convention of the city attorneys of the state at which a bill will be drawn up placing the control of the police department entirely in the hands of the citizen-police commission. The bill will then be presented to the legislature and all the pressure possible will be brought to bear to secure its passage. Under this plan this city marshal or superintendent of police would be the only officer who would go to the council for confirmation. The commission would do the rest and efficiency would be the only qualification necessary for a policeman to retain office.

Chairman Brophy of the police commission is interesting himself in the reform and he will make an effort to have the plans as above outlined carried out.

Hood's Is Wonderful

"At harvesting time I took a severe cold which settled in my limbs, and in a short time developed into Rheumatism. After spending a good sum of money for different remedies and suffering all winter, I became so crippled that I had to walk with the aid of crutches. By the kind advice of a friend I was prevailed upon to buy six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla. I took the medicine and it has fully restored me to health and I think it saved my life. I will cheerfully answer all who may wish to correspond about my affliction or statement."
